pany which they allege was unlawfully paid to him by Richard B. Irwin, agent of the company, for alleged services in procuring the Government subsidy for the company in 1872.

It is alleged by the Company that Irwin had a large amount of their money in his possession which he disbursed unlawfully to a number of persons, among whom was Schumaker. This suit arose out of the Congressional investigation into the subsidy matter some time ago. Mr. Bartiett, of counsel for the Company, stated to-day that as the case developed itself ne would be able to turnish more information regarding it, but up to the present he could not state anything beyond the above. Pre-timinary papers were served yesterday. Rumors were affoat also of negotiations in Europe between Vice President Scott and Ex-President Stockwell in regard to claims of the Company against the latter.

AN ATTEMPT TO KILL AN EDITOR

It Was All About a Female Compositor South Bend, Ind., Nov. 28 .- Friday evening last a female printer, recently discharged from the Morning Herald, P. Murray, for the purpose of chastising him, in which she was folled. Saturday the Herald published an account of the affair, charging her with loose habits and coupling with her W. A. Palmer, a Justice of the Peace, in criminal intimacy. Yesterday afternoon, at nearly two o'clook, Palmer, with a large horse pistol, met Murray on the stairs leading to the office and shot him, the ball going through his body and lodging on the sidewalk. Murray is alive, with faint hopes of surviving. The excitement on the streets was intense, and threats of lynching are induiged in. Winter Covering for Stramberry Vines.

Strawberry vines require some protection during our Northern winters. Although the growing plants need manure, there is danger of piling on so much as to damage the productiveness of the vines the following season. The editor of the Germantown Telegraph says that he has known people to cover their strawberry beds with manure and find the whole completely rotten in the spring. Yet a little covering with the the whole completely rotten in the spring. Yet a little covering with the right kind of material is not a bad thing. If the plants are entirely unprotected the leaves are browned and often de-stroyed; while it must have been noted by every observant gardener that the best fruit comes from plants that have managed to keep their leaves bright and managed to keep their feaves bright and green till their spring flowers appear. And this is why a covering of snow the whole winter is so good for the strawberry crop. As we have remarked, when the leaves are browned the crop is small, but when the snow covers the plants all the winter long they come out in the spring in the best possible state for fruit/ulness. But we can not always depend on the snow. It does not always come or continue in a regular way.

So if some light material can be put over the plants that will not smother and
